

WANT TO KEEP MORE OF THE MONEY YOU EARN?

Use an Impairment Related Work Expense (IRWE)!

SOCIAL SECURITY DISABILITY INSURANCE (SSDI) EDITION

IRWE's are expenses incurred by any SSDI recipient that:

are paid by the worker and not reimbursed by others.

are paid during a month the person works.

are considered to be reasonable by Social Security.

are related to their impairment (disability).

purchase something needed to be able to work.

Why is this important to me?

After your trial work period, when an expense is submitted to Social Security and approved as an IRWE, it is deducted from your gross monthly earnings. This will allow you to exceed substantial gainful income by the amount of the IRWE.
